There are many faces of erectile dysfunction.

You don't have to be one of them.

Erectile dysfunction (ED) affects up to 50 million men in the U.S.[1] While most men try pills as their first ED treatment, it is estimated that for 40% of cases, pills are not effective.[2] ED is especially common in men with prostate surgery, diabetes, high blood pressure and obesity.[3]

Ready to regain your confidence and reignite spontaneous moments with your partner? There are reliable, effective ED solutions available, and many are covered by insurance and prescription plans.
